Course Objectives and Overview	This course called <Reading Contemporary Art> Not a skimming class of art history in general but digging into the relationship between art and society based on our hidden background and understanding of social situations I want students to understand the relationship by exploring our contemporary society and the field of contemporary art that takes place in it. The purpose of this study is to diagnose the appearance of modern society through various art phenomena. In other words, we can learn how to read society and read paintings. Furthermore, I would like to point out social issues drawn from art across the ages and spaces. In the main issue called Art Issues, we identify and understand the relationship between art and society with the examples you find. It's not just a class for appreciation of art works, and in order to grasp the issue's correlation and social background, study of humanities, and society must be explored in parallel. The main task of this course is to explore the field of contemporary art. Interview exhibitions and artists' works that can be viewed directly by team projects Assignment to introduce and present vivid contemporary art scenes through research work in the workshop should be done.
Prerequisite (Prerequisite Learning)	There are no special subjects to take. However, we take courses in the humanities and arts related fields such as history, philosophy, and society. If so, further study of the course is possible.
Course operation method	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Each weekly and topical lecture will be conducted using presentation materials and video materials. 2.
